In the height of the season, traffic is such that both run in concert loading, passing and unloading like a drill team. The main streets of the town, like any tourist town, are alive with strollers and shoppers sampling the wares of the shops and enjoying the bustle of the crowded streets. In the winter and this time of year the pace must be similar to our own and probably less as the winter dwellers enjoy the lull before the summer invasion of tourists. Our off islands may be inhospitable in the cold of winter but in summer there is nothing more inviting under the sun. We are most fortunately situated

It's a long memory to the summer of '82 but a short, sweet expectation to the summer of '83. If you haven't visited Edgartown in recent years, we give it four stars on a day when the sun shines. Put it on the list of memorable trips to enjoy.

Selectmen's Meeting

DETECTIVE REQUEST

Police Chief James Moran told Selectmen that he would like to keep the 1982 unmarked car for another year before trading and trade only one of the marked cars while buying 2 new 1983 vehicles. This would give the town 4 cruisers. The extra car would be for the use of a detective that Moran proposes for the force. He said that the new plan would be to trade police vehicles every 18 months. He said that the additional cruiser would cost only $1800. (the trade-in allowance if the cruiser were traded).

Chief Moran said that the force has been operating without a detective for two years and that a full time detective would be a valuable addition, needed to carry on investigations not only in Mattapoisett but to go outside the town following leads as well. He said that it is a definite advantage to have a man who has a continuity, tailored to needs of the department. He said that some of the $6000 in overtime could be saved if a full time investigator were on the job to take care of all major investigations and appear in court. Moran said that he had a patrolman already in his department who had been studying on his own to gain the detective skills needed. In reply to a question by Selectman James Huntoon, Moran stated that the department could not operate with one less officer. If a man were made detective he would have to be replaced to fill the 24-hour shift.

The Selectmen said that they would have to delay any decision until after a complete study of the proposal measured against the funds available. The cost would be an estimated $26,000 over last year.

Drawn for jury duty at the Criminal/Civil Session Brockton starting April 4th were: Karen Costa, 12 Randall Road; Ole Larsen, 129 Brandt Island Road; Kathleen Quinlan, 2 Hitching Post Road; and Marsha Schofield, 31 Brandt Beach Avenue.

ART LOTTERY SUCCESS

The Massachusetts Arts Lottery Council notified Selectmen that "Megabucks" success has led to the accumulation of $935,600 in grants for July of which Mattapoisett is entitled to $577. Application for grants can be made at the Selectmen's Office.

TOWN ACCOUNTANT RAISE

The Personnel Board notified Selectmen that they have approved an increase in the Town Accountant's salary from Grade 8, Step 1 to Grade 8 maximum, the increase to be effective March 1st. The increase is from $12,417. to $13,259.

SERIES OF EXPLORATION LESSONS IN FOREIGN LANGUAGES

Parents of 7th grade students at Old Rochester Regional Junior High School should be advised that the annual series of exploration lessons in Latin, French, and Spanish have been completed by the 7th grade students at the Junior High School under the instruction of advanced language students from the High School. Orientation lessons were provided for all of the 7th grade students during these sessions in order that they might be better advised about their choices for grade 8 foreign language.

Shortly, a selection form will be distributed to 7th grade students. We ask that parents discuss these selections with their children and return the completed form to their homeroom teachers at the Junior High School.

His pre-medical education was obtained at the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences, University College, New York University. His internship was at Framingham Union Hospital, Framingham, Massachusetts. His residencies included pediatrics at Boston City Hospital, radiology at Boston City Hospital, pediatric-radiology at Children's Hospital, Boston. Dr. McFadden resides in Marion with his wife, Nancy, and their children, Jonathan and Jesse.

Dr. McFadden feels that the year ahead will prove to be one of challenge as many changes are expected in view of the new law recently imposed on hospitals with reference to the manner in which reimbursement will take place as well as the severe cost containment placed on the operating budget. The medical staff will work closely with management to address the problem keeping in mind that the high quality of health care must continue in the future as it has in the past.

Many of us have gone "whale watching" but how much have you been able to learn about the creatures you've observed. In addition most whale watches are a short four hours with much time spent getting to and from the habitats where the whales feed. This minicourse will allow both the experienced whale watcher and the person who has never seen a whale to become more knowledgeable about these creatures.

The first classroom session, Monday, May 2, 7:30 p.m., taught by Mr. Hankin, will deal with anatomy, physiology and ecology of whales. A text and recently released report of whale research in the Gulf of Maine will be given to every registrant. What to expect on the whale watch, how to photograph whales and field identification will be discussed.

The second classroom session, Wednesday May 4, 7:30 p.m. taught by Dr. Mayo will describe the most recent observations and research on whales in Cape Cod Bay and the Stellwagon Banks. Dr. Mayo and the staff of the Provincetown Center have been instrumental in the understanding and identification of humpback and fin whales in this area. Slides and video-tapes of whale behavior will be used to describe recent sightings.

The all-day whale watch Monday, May 9, is a unique opportunity by special arrangement by the Lloyd Center with the Provincetown Center and the Dolphin Fleet. This trip will allow for very careful observation of the whales, dolphins and porpoises throughout the region of the Cape. Three interpreters including Dr. Mayo, Mr. Hankin and a past researcher on the birds of the area off-shore will serve to make this trip very informative and interesting.

On May 25 at 7:30 p.m. all registrants will be able to compare slides, photographs and video-tapes from the trip with interpretation provided by Lloyd Center staff. A question and answer session will follow.

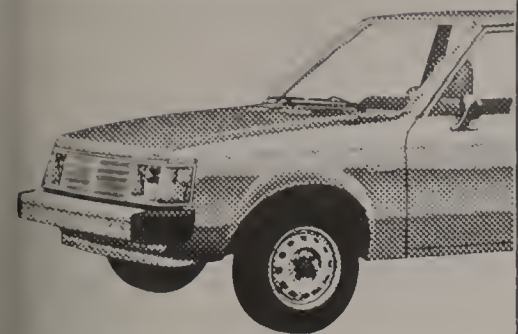

Advanced registration is required by April 8, 1983. The Lloyd Center is located at 430 Potomska Road, South Dartmouth, and reserves the right to cancel for insufficient registration. There is a fee.

Grosart, M.D., William P. Hunt, M.D., Moacir de Sa Pereira, M.C., and Scott J. Henderson, M.D., the newest physician recruited by Parkwood to help alleviate the area's shortage of primary care physicians (family practitioners and internists). Dr. Henderson and the others are all board certified physicians specializing in internal medicine.

"There is a federally documented need for more primary care practitioners in the greater New Bedford area," said Robert F. Davis, the hospital's executive director, "a need we are actively working to fill as part of our continuing commitment to bringing our community the brightest and finest medical care available. We also hope the process of getting final approval to build Parkwood Manor, a much needed 122-bed nursing home on the hospital's grounds, is coming closer to reality."

An ideal location for medical offices, the Parkwood Medical Building will be gracefully set into the wooded setting off Acushnet Avenue, providing ample parking and ready access to the hospital next door.

A quarter million dollar plus building project, the Parkwood Medical Building was designed by the Ritchie Organization, international health care architects, and is being built by New Bedford's Paul Cleary Company, general contractors.

Acid Rain Monitoring

On March 20th concerned volunteers all over Massachusetts will start to do something about Acid Rain. The Massachusetts Audubon Society, in cooperation with Trout Unlimited, the Water Resources Research Center at the University of Massachusetts (Amherst), and other outdoors and environmental groups, is helping to organize this unique volunteer citizen effort. The program, called the Acid Rain Monitoring Project (ARM), will make use of over 750 volunteers who will sample some 2000 lakes, ponds, and streams in their own neighborhoods throughout the Commonwealth. The purpose of the program is to obtain scientifically verifiable data on the effects of acid rain on surface water in Massachusetts.

The Acid Rain Monitoring Project, the brainchild of Dr. Paul Godfrey of the University of Massachusetts' Water Resources Center, is set up so that once a month each volunteer will sample their assigned lake or stream. These samples will then be delivered to designated labs for acidity and alkalinity analysis. Dr. Tom Zajicek, of the University of Massachusetts Chemistry Department, has developed sampling and analysis procedures to assure standardization across the state.

Many groups and individuals are contributing to the project. Trout Unlimited has provided financial support, and many local chapters have been instrumental in organizing the project within counties. The Massachusetts Audubon Society, Appalachian Mountain Club, Massachusetts Sportsmen's Council, the League of Women Voters, Massachusetts Garden Clubs, and concerned citizens have also helped the organizing efforts. Laboratory facilities in colleges, water treatment plants, private laboratories, industrial companies, the past 2 years the Commonwealth has had the lowest average pH in the country, about pH 4.0. According to Dr. Fitch, "Acid rain has far-reaching effects across this state and region ... the acidification of lakes, soils, and groundwater poses serious threats to fish and other aquatic life, terrestrial plants, soil fertility and drinking water. In Massachusetts, acid rain is a particular threat because national weather patterns carry great quantities of acid-producing compounds to this area, and the lakes and soils here have little natural acid-neutralizing capacity."

vice (CIS) has a new, easy to remember toll-free number, 1-800-4-CANCER.

The Massachusetts CIS shares this easily recalled number with 20 other cancer communications offices across the country. This new single number allows callers to pass it on to out-of-state relatives who will automatically be connected to the CIS office serving their area.

The local CIS was established in 1976 to provide Massachusetts residents with accurate up-to-date information on cancer. Since its inception, trained counselors have responded to over 45,000 inquiries from cancer patients, their families and friends, and the general public. Counselors provide information on the detection, diagnosis, and treatment of all types of cancer.

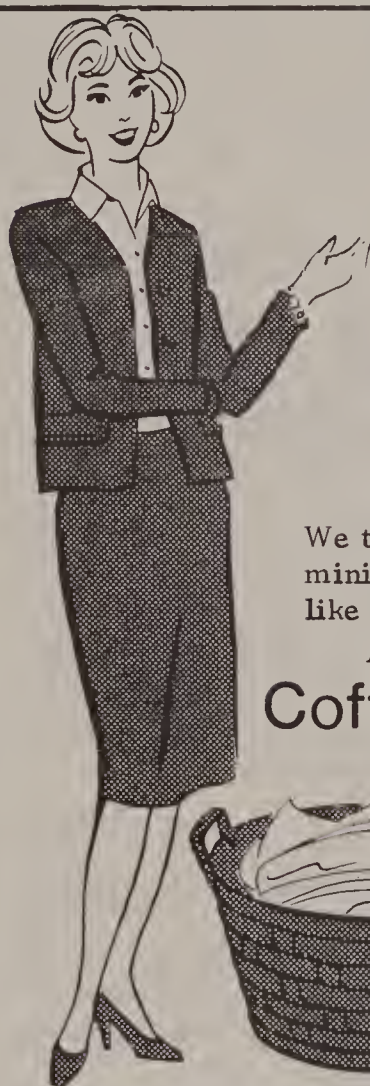

Other services provided by the Cancer Information Service counselors include referrals to community organizations such as hospice, home health, and support groups. In addition, publications on cancer and its treatments are available free of charge.

The CIS network is funded by the National Cancer Institute. The local office is open Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. A national office in Bethesda, Maryland handles after hour calls until Midnight, EST.

 RE-ELECT ***

PETER F. COVILLE

MATTAPOISETT SCHOOL COMMITTEE

To the Voters of Mattapoisett:

For three years I have worked hard to maintain quality education in our elementary schools. Our schools must compete with other municipal departments for a very limited amount of tax dollars. I strongly believe that I have demonstrated to you my effectiveness in the area of budget responsibility. The Mattapoisett School Department budget has been level funded for the past two years.

During this period of fiscal concern, the Mattapoisett elementary schools continue to earn a reputation of excellence in both program and instruction. Your vote to re-elect me is a vote to continue this responsibility to you and to our children.

On April 5, vote to re-elect Peter F. Coville ... an educated choice.
